VETERANS OF TWO WARS UNITED FOR OSCAR CARLSTROM

Organize Behind Capt. to Beat Brundage in Tuesday Primary.

Recruiting of a state-wide organization of veterans of the Spanish-American and world wars in aid of the candidacy of Capt. Oscar E. Carlstrom, who is seeking the Republican nomination for attorney general, has been undertaken by some of the captain's former "buddies."

The movement to actively endorse Capt. Carlstrom has taken the name, "Service Men's Political League."

Col. John P. Garrity, president of the league, said organization of Chicago and other parts of Cook County already is well under way and that it is planned to extend it to the rest of the state.

Cities War Record

Continuing, Col. Garrity said: "Capt. Carlstrom's loyalty to America and American institutions has been proven. Comrade Carlstrom served honorably sixteen months in the Philippines as a private of infantry during the Spanish-American war. He again entered the service in 1917, being then 39, leaving his family and the state's attorney's office, and served two years (one year overseas) as a captain of infantry and of artillery. He has been actively interested in all veteran organizations, has been commander-in-chief of the Spanish War Veterans. He is a member of the American Legion; appointed in the Paris caucus in 1919 a member of the Committee of Fifty representing the A. E. F. to organize the American Legion."

"His loyalty in service and to his comrades has been such as to insure that he will give loyal, clean, honorable service in the office of attorney general of Illinois, to the people of Illinois."

"With full confidence in his integrity, all service men should rally to the support of Carlstrom."

Banquet This Evening

A banquet will be given in honor of Capt. Carlstrom at the Cameo Room, Morrison Hotel this evening at 6 p. m., at which it is expected 2000 ex-service men will be present.

The executive board of the World's War Veterans, in endorsing the candidacy of Capt. Carlstrom, says: "We know of your great work in behalf of your comrades and their dependents; the personal interest you take in the homes for the war veterans' orphans and the great work you have accomplished for our comrades in the soldiers' homes while you were commander-in-chief of the United Spanish War Veterans."

"We are proud to have such a comrade as Oscar Carlstrom and will do all in our power to elect you to office."

Kostuk Disposes of His Tailoring Store

Thomas Kostuk, who for some time has conducted a tailoring establishment at 78 Galena avenue, has disposed of the stock, fixtures and lease to Nils O. Degerberg of Chicago, who takes possession at once. Mr. Kostuk is retiring from a very successful business which he has built up, has not decided as to his future plans.

Mr. Degerberg is a specialist in tailoring, having conducted a shop of his own in Chicago for some time. On account of his two small children, he has chosen Dixon as his future home. He has had several years of experience in his profession in New York and Philadelphia. Mr. Degerberg expects to move his family from Chicago to Dixon as soon as he is able to secure a residence.

TITO SCHIPA GREAT TENOR, SAYS MME. BURR.

Dixon Woman Writes of Singer Who Appears Here.

The people of Dixon and surrounding territory are very fortunate in having the opportunity of hearing Tito Schipa.

Wherever Schipa appears he captures his audience and his tour this season has been a succession of glorious triumphs. Madame Johanna Hess Burr writes as follows regarding Schipa.

"The management of Sig. Schipa's Concert has honored me with a request to write my version of the artistic merits of this celebrated singer."

It has been claimed by many that Caruso was the world's greatest tenor. I consider Sig. Schipa's voice equal, if not greater than Caruso's. He certainly surpasses him in his art and musicianship.

Sig. Schipa, whom we will have the privilege of hearing April 13th in my estimation is the greatest living tenor. No one has appealed to me with such wonderful art, beauty and quality of tone and I have come in contact professionally with all the great singers of my time.

I urge every one who can possibly do so to hear this great genius without fail.

Madame Johanna Hess Burr. Schipa will appear in concert at the Dixon theater at 2:30 p. m. April 13. Seat sale at theater will open Monday, April 7th and mail orders will be promptly cared for in the order of receipt.

Many requests for reservation have already been received. The concert is being extensively advertised in the northern part of the state and is sponsored by L. E. Jacobson, A. W. Leeland, Frank J. Cahill, I. B. Potter and Oliver M. Rogers.

Thompson Honored By Elks Friday Evening

Dr. Willard Thompson, retiring exalted ruler of the Dixon lodge of Elks, was tendered a complimentary banquet Friday evening at the club house. About 250 members of the lodge sat down in the dining room at 6:30 and enjoyed a fried cat fish supper, which was served with all of the necessary garnishments. Short talks were made by Martin J. Gannon, Louis Pitcher, and Exalted Ruler Willard Thompson. A pinocchio tournament occupied the remainder of the evening. W. V. Slothower, C. Gonnerman and A. C. Hieberger were tied for the head prize, while Dr. Willard Thompson, Victor Eichler and John Reagan contested the consolation trophy. Commissioner Slothower and Dr. Thompson proved the wizards when it came to cutting a deck of cards to decide the winners of the prizes in both classes.

By Associated Press Leased Wire Washington, April 5.—Secretary Weeks announced today that no change in the existing arrangements for withdrawal by the Chicago Drainage Canal of waters from Lake Michigan would be made by the War Department until after the United States Supreme Court hands down its decision in that case, hearings for which have been set for next November.

Bavarian Town Plans Tax on Foreign Words Used in Advertising

By Associated Press Leased Wire Ambach, Bavaria, April 5.—"American bars" will probably disappear from Ambach and "coiffeurs" will be replaced by some German word which suggests the idea of a barber shop. The town council has decided to place a special tax on all foreign words used in any sort of advertising.

NEW BUILDING FOR FRUIT CO. ON RIVER ST.

Property Purchased is Adjoining Present Big Warehouse.

Frank F. Suter, manager of the Dixon Fruit company, announced today the construction of a two-story fire proof building adjoining the present location on East River street, to be finished this summer. The old building, which was originally erected to house the Brink & Deeter planing mill, is being dismantled and torn down. George Howell, who has conducted a machine shop in this location has stored his machinery and will seek a location.

The property was purchased some time ago by the Dixon Fruit Co. and while no plans have been drawn or contracts let, Mr. Suter has outlined his plan of construction, which will doubtless be carried out in the new structure. The first floor will doubtless be used for an automobile repair shop, with storage space on the second floor. Accommodations for the present building occupied by the Fruit company will also be extended in the new structure.

Ask Conference to Discuss Taxation

By Associated Press Leased Wire Washington, April 5.—In a letter to President Coolidge today, Senator McCormick, Illinois, republican member of the finance committee, asked that a conference of governors and principal fiscal officers of the states be called "to consider the appalling increase in local and state taxation." During the past decade the Illinois senator said, state taxes have increased 183 per cent, county taxes 141 per cent and the taxes of cities of over 2,500 inhabitants, 80 per cent. In Illinois, he said, the average citizen pays to the federal government only one-fourth as much annually in income taxes as he pays in local and state taxation.

"Fakirs" Abandoned Charity Ball When Ruffians Appeared

By Associated Press Leased Wire New York, April 5.—The Society of American Fakirs, which for six years has held annual costume balls for the benefit of poor artists, has decided to abandon the custom because of disturbances caused at its function last Friday by college students.

Miss Alice Moran, attorney for the society, made public today letters sent to the presidents of Yale and Princeton Universities, protesting against the tactics of students and referring to them as "ruffians who have caused us serious annoyance by coming uninvited and attempting to force admittance to our ball."

The ball last Friday ended in a riot when a group of persons fought to gain admittance.

Washington G. O. P. Endorses Coolidge

By Associated Press Leased Wire Wenatchee, Wash., April 5.—Republicans of Washington open their state convention here today with a platform before them, drawn up by a subcommittee and ratified by a platform committee last night, pledging themselves to the candidacy of Calvin Coolidge, for the presidency and expressing an explicit stand on government measures.

Central Examinations on in Rural Schools

Miller returned home last evening after spending the week in conducting the annual central examination for eighth grade pupils in the rural schools in the south end of the county. ## INVISIBLE GOVERNMENT SEEKS TO DESTROY SMALL, GOVERNOR WHOM IT CANNOT DICTATE TO

It must be EVIDENT to citizens in general, by this time, that Governor Len Small has been MORE LIED ABOUT than any governor in our time.

Charge after charge has been exploded, lie after lie has been refuted, and the now common conclusion is the natural sequence.

But do the people in general see as clearly THE MOTIVE FOR THE LYING? It should be plain to every one:

THE "INVISIBLE GOVERNMENT" SEEKS TO DESTROY OFFICIALS IT CANNOT RULE.

That in brief is the explanation.

Those "interests" which usually HAVE RULED AT SPRINGFIELD has NOT ruled since Len Small was elected.

An idea as to the special interests which seek Governor Small's defeat, which have directed the three-year barrage of false, poisonous propaganda, may be secured by reflecting on certain "high spots" in the governor's record.

Governor Small fought for a 5-cent street car fare in Chicago.

His Illinois Commerce Commission REDUCED utility rates in Illinois to the extent of $25,000,000 per annum.

He made veto cuts of $1,000,000 in Brundage's swollen appropriation.

He smashed the contractor and material combines in the state hard road situation and built roads for $13,000 a mile LESS than the price that had obtained.

He vetoed the corporation-rigged jury bill which would have made trial by jury a farce in Cook County, sending this veto message at the particular request of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

He fought to put the "hidden wealth" of the state on the tax books.

He vetoed the bill which would have cut down the inheritance tax on huge estates.

He cut down the earnings of United States Senator McKinley's system of INTERURBAN LINES by building 2,000 miles of hard roads—and will build 5,000 more miles of good roads if re-elected.

By reflecting on the foregoing you can draw YOUR OWN CONCLUSION as to the reason for the poison propaganda campaign which has been waged against the governor—as to THE MOTIVE FOR THE MANY LIES THAT HAVE BEEN TOLD ABOUT OUR GOVERNOR.

We drew our conclusions long ago and tried to give support to the governor, believing that he was working honestly and courageously in the interest of the people.

FORMER DIXON MAN IS BADLY HURT BY TRAIN

Nelson Munz Struck By Freight on Crossing at Galt.

Nelson Munz, agent for the Indiana Oil company at Sterling and a resident of Dixon until about six months ago, when he removed to Sterling to take charge of the company's interests in Whiteside county, is in a critical condition at the Sterling hospital, the result of being struck by a Burlington freight train at the railroad crossing at Galt yesterday afternoon. He was driving a tank truck through the village and at the crossing apparently did not observe the freight train which was going to Sterling, and is said to have driven into the drive wheels of the big locomotive. The accident occurred at the crossing in Galt which has been the scene of many fatalities.

The wig-wag electric signal, maintained by the Northwestern at the crossing, was said to be working and the young man evidently did not observe it, although he had driven across this crossing many times. The Burlington uses the Northwestern tracks from Agnew to Sterling.

His leg was broken below the knee, his skull was fractured and he was badly cut and bruised about the body. He was rushed to the Sterling hospital and last evening it was doubtful whether he would recover or not. This morning, however, it was reported that he had spent a very restful night and the attending physician believed the condition very favorable.

ROBERTS' FARM SCENE OF RAID THIS AFTERNOON

Mrs. Laura Sherman is Taken in Custody; Barrel of Booze.

The second raid within 14 months on the Elmer Roberts farm about three miles west of Amboy was conducted by Sheriff Elliott C. Risley and his sponge squad at 1:30 this afternoon, resulting in the arrest of Mrs. Laura Sherman, a former resident of this city. It was reported that the raiding party had secured a 50-gallon barrel of finished liquor and up to press time were searching for a still which it is believed has been in operation for some time. Parts of a still were found about the farm, Sheriff Risley said.

Roberts is now serving a long sentence in the county jail for violation of the liquor law. Mrs. Sherman having been implicated and charges preferred against her at the same time. These were quashed, however, some time ago. She was brought to Dixon this afternoon and placed in the county jail.

The sheriff assembled his squad this morning at 11 o'clock and went to the Roberts farm armed with search warrant.

Immigration Bill Faces Hard Fight

By Associated Press Leased Wire Washington, April 5.—The Johnson Immigration bill was taken up in the house amid indications of vigorous efforts to change many of its provisions. Discussions of proposals for its amendment are expected to delay a vote until late next week.

The Johnson bill proposes an immigration quota of two per cent based on the 1890 census, provides for examination abroad of aliens desiring to make their home in this country and would practically bar Japanese from entry.

The present law fixes the quota at 3 per cent on the basis of the 1910 census.

Representative Sabath, democrat, Illinois, a member of the immigration committee who disagrees with the proposals sponsored by Chairman Johnson, introduced a resolution yesterday providing for extension until Dec. 31, 1925, of the present law which expired June 30 and a study of problems in the meantime.

DIXON CONCERNS CHARGE UNFAIR RATES ON COAL

Complaint Against I. C. Filed with Ill. Commerce Body.

(Telegraph Special Service.) Springfield, Ill., April 5.—The Sandusky Cement company, the Borden company, the Reynolds Wire company and the Dixon Distilled Water company, all of Dixon, filed a complaint with the Illinois Commerce Commission today against the Illinois Central and other railroads of alleged unjust and discriminatory rates from the Springfield and southern Illinois group of mines to Dixon on carload lots of coal.

The above local industries are large users of coal shipped to Dixon in carload lots and have united in an effort by which it is hoped to bring about a readjustment of freight rates from the mines to Dixon, which are claimed to be excessive.

State May Rest in McCray Trial Today

By Associated Press Leased Wire Indianapolis, Ind., April 5.—The prosecution in the trial of Governor McCray, charged with embezzlement of $155,000 of the funds of the state board of agriculture, is expected to close its case today. ## LITTLE JOE

IF MEN WORRIED OVER BALDNESS AS MUCH AS WOMEN DO OVER A FEW GRAY HAIRS THE WORLD'S SUPPLY OF MISERY WOULD BE DOUBLED.

"I know of no more effective sales that could be rendered to the agricultural interests of the central north-west. Where a farmer proves himself to be competent and industrious, willing to undertake the added responsibility and labor incident to diversified farming, it should be possible for him to obtain the funds and the practical assistance necessary to enable him to purchase livestock and thus make a start toward diversification. If such a program is soundly administered, should be possible to make loans—this character upon a sound security without undue financial risk. In connection with business of this kind, moreover, your corporation would, am informed, be legally eligible to make legal application to the War Finance Corporation for loans in substantial amounts."

"I would appreciate it if you would advise me whether or not in your opinion, and in the opinion of your board of directors, it will be practicable for your corporation to undertake in co-operation with the War Finance Corporation, and along sound and conservative lines, a substantial amount of business of the character which have outlined in this letter."

New York, April 5.—Furnald Hall, residential hall at Columbia University, a room of which is occupied by F. W. Wells, a negro law student, of Union City, Tenn., continues to be a storm center. Wells has received two letters threatening death, purporting to have been sent by Klansmen.

One of the letters was scrawled in pen, enclosed in a plain envelope which Wells found under his door. The second, typewritten, reached him by mail.

As three members of the police bomb squad kept guard in the dormitory last night, two factions in the dispute further strengthened their lines. J. B. Rucker, chairman of the hall committee, presented to Dean Hawkes a resolution of the committee asking Wells' removal from the building. A counter request urging that Wells be allowed to stay was signed by 100 residents, more than half of those in the building.

Have One Minor Clue in Murder of Woman

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Los Angeles, Calif., April 5.—Detectives investigating the slaying here last night of Mrs. Vera Stone, 29, had discovered but one clue today. This was the statement of Mrs. Stone's landlady that she had heard a woman's voice in the apartment sobbing: "My God Bill, you're killing me."

She did not investigate she told the police.

Shortly after 11 o'clock Mrs. Stone's sister returned from a theater and found the body. The woman's skull had been crushed, apparently by a hammer.

Honor Retiring Pres. of Society

The members of the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society enjoyed a delightful afternoon Wednesday at the home of Mrs. S. W. Lehman to honor their retiring president, Mrs. B. I. Hitchcock, who, after twelve years of faithful service, asked to be released, which request was granted with deep regret.

During the afternoon Mrs. W. S. Morris, in a happy speech presented Mrs. Hitchcock with two beautifully illustrated books of travel by Frank Carpenter, a token of the society's appreciation of her years of tireless and devoted service.

Mrs. Hitchcock responded in her usual charming and gracious manner, unselfishly ascribing the growth in numbers, zeal and enthusiasm, referred to by Mrs. Morris, to the loyalty and co-operation of the members, instead of to her own efforts. She spoke feelingly of the many faithful members who had passed on during her term of office, and predicted continued progress and greater accomplishment for the society in the future.

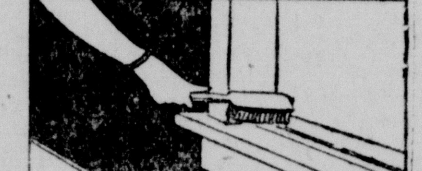

The enjoyable afternoon was brought to close by the serving of dainty refreshments, with Mrs. W. S. Morris presiding at the urn.

EAT AND—LOSE WEIGHT.

Three large unsweetened stewed prunes, 2 soft boiled eggs, 1 cup clear soup, 1/2 cup combination vegetable salad, 1 whole sweetbread split and broiled, 12 stalks asparagus, 1 head lettuce, 1 baked apple, 2 crisp pieces gluten toast, 1 gluten roll, 1 pint skimmed milk.

Whether the person on a reducing diet goes breakfastless or not should depend on her occupation and the chances she has for a hearty lunch. For instance, the woman who's husband stays down town for lunch will not prepare a meal for herself alone and she should eat a nourishing breakfast.

But the woman who must serve a hearty meal at noon time, for a family, will find a breakfast of fruit, toast and coffee more to her liking. The breakfast in bed should consist of a cup of hot water and nothing more.

If a woman does her own work she will actually need food to help her through the morning and she should not try to overdo a good thing by overtaxing her physical or nervous strength.

The business woman needs a breakfast to help her start her day.

The omission of luncheon or a very light noon meal balances the periods between eating far better than the omission of breakfast.

There is no reason to be miserable when dieting to reduce if each person considers her individual needs and provides for them.

GAIN WEIGHT.
Six large sweetened stewed prunes, 1 cup boiled rice, 2 slices broiled bacon, 2 soft boiled eggs, 1 cup noodle soup, 1/2 cup combination vegetable salad, 1 breaded veal cutlet, 1 cup creamed potatoes, 4 tablespoons buttered lima beans, 1 head lettuce, 4 tablespoons Roquefort cheese dressing, 1-6 coconut cream pie, 1 baker apple, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1/2 cup cream, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise, 2 pieces whole wheat toast, 2 slices bran bread with nuts and raisins, 2 Parkerhouse rolls, 1 cup cocoa whole milk, 3 tablespoons butter.

WAGE EARNERS OF STATE BACK SMALL FOR RE-NOMINATION

Cite Reasons Why Essington Should Not Get Republican O. K.

Chicago, Ill.—Appeals to every wage earner and other citizen who voted against the proposed new state constitution, urging the defeat of State Senator Essington and the nomination of Governor Len Small, are being made by the "Len Small for Governor Wage Earners' League."

Reasons why wage earners should support Governor Small against Senator Essington are set forth in a pamphlet that is being widely distributed throughout Cook county.

Under the caption, "Why Wage Earners Want Len Small for Governor," the following reasons are advanced:

"Governor Small helped defeat the proposed new state constitution.

"Governor Small has refused to be the 'tool' and 'lapdog' of the Chicago Tribune.

"Governor Small has publicly declared against the issuance of injunctions in labor disputes and takes a firm and definite position in favor of anti-injunction law.

"Governor Small has helped the public school system more than any governor ever did by urging financial support.

"Governor Small vetoed the vicious jury commissioners' bill. This measure, passed by House and Senate, would have brought class distinction into the jury system and would have given 'big business' an opportunity of controlling the selection of jurors in both civil and criminal cases.

"Governor Small has given wage earners fair and able representation on all state commissions that in any way deals with the wage earners problems.

"Governor Small is an open-minded executive—free from boss and corporation control.

"Governor Small fought for and approved the soldier's bonus bill in this state.

"Governor Small has carried into effect the most humane and beneficial parole system of any executive of any state in this nation or any country in the world. Eighty-seven out of every 100 prisoners that the board has paroled have made good and are now honest, respectable citizens keeping their families.

"The Tribune gang now seeks to destroy the parole law. There is no charity in their make-up except for themselves.

Reasons Against Essington
Why wage earners do not want Essington for governor is brought out as follows:

"He was selected to the Senate on the pledge that he would support the women's eight-hour law. He broke that pledge.

"He also pledged to oppose the military 'Cossack' state police bill No. 444, which would have destroyed every trades union, farmer's organization, co-operative society and storekeeper's organization in the state.

He supported a bill in the Senate that would have given to the judiciary power to issue so-called 'declaratory judgments' and assume other powers that the people voted against when they defeated the proposed new state constitution."

This is a very important position, as was demonstrated a few months ago in this community, and voters should give the matter their careful attention and investigate the records of the present Committeemen with reference to their representing the wishes of the people and vote only for candidates who can satisfactorily show that they will act on matters coming before them in accordance with the public will.

Committeemen are elected by the voters writing the name of the candidate or attaching a sticker containing the name at the bottom of the primary ballot.

A VOTE FOR YOURSELF.

When you step into the polls on Tuesday, if you will vote for Len Small for Governor, you will be casting a vote for yourself and for your own best interests.

Len Small has given Illinois a splendid administration as Governor. You do not even hear sensible criticism of his acts since he has been Governor.

But he has done more than that. He has given the people of this state something that no other Governor has ever done, something that you want more of for your own personal use and enjoyment—GOOD ROADS.

The opposing faction fought good roads.
They have attempted to block them at every turn. Will they give us the good roads that Governor Small will give us? The record does not indicate it. We KNOW Governor Small will do it. Let's be safe and sure and GET THE ROADS.

VOTE FOR YOURSELF NEXT TUESDAY.

REMEMBER FRED STERLING.

When you go to the polls Tuesday do not forget Fred E. Sterling, candidate for re-election as Lieutenant Governor. Mr. Sterling, who lives in our neighboring city of Rockford, was born in Dixon and Lee County should show her pride in this man who has risen to leadership in Illinois politics.

Fred E. Sterling is a thoroughly honorable and capable officer. His administration of affairs in presiding over the upper house of the Illinois legislature won for Governor Sterling the admiration and respect of all the members of the Senate. His admitted ability as an official, his common interest with Dixon as a resident of the Rock River valley and his general qualifications all commend him to the voters of this county.

OMER N. CUSTER FOR TREASURER.

Omer N. Custer of Galesburg is the most promising candidate for the republican nomination for State Treasurer of Illinois and he is recommended to the voters by such a highly respected man as Louis L. Emmerson, Secretary of State.

Custer will be a credit to the Republican ticket in November and should receive all Republican support in Illinois.

GUARDING BABIES FROM GERMS.

The train doesn't leave the track to hit the auto. The auto goes to the track, gets in the way of the train. This principle applies to safeguarding babies from disease germs.

Nature never intended babies to be what the medical profession calls "wandering units." To the contrary, she intended them to be "stationary units"—living in one spot until strong enough to creep and later walk away.

The infant in his cradle does not go out and "catch" germs. No! The germs are brought to the baby by outsiders—or else the baby is taken to the germs.

A baby's "zone of safety" is a distance six feet from where he lies. Baby is apt to catch germs if any diseased person ventures inside
this safety zone—particularly common colds, tuberculosis and other infections communicable by the breath.

No one with such a disease should ever pick up a baby. Anyone with, say, a cold should wear a mask when approaching.

Baby in the cradle has not developed powers of resistance against disease germs, though from mother's milk he gets a certain amount of what are known as "immunes."

Baby needs fresh air and sunshine. He can get these on a porch or in a well ventilated and unlighted room.

When baby is wheeled out on the streets in its carriage, he begins to breathe dust, floating germs, poison gas from autos, etc. As civilization more congested and infections more common, it becomes increasingly dangerous to expose baby to streets.

The best place to raise a baby is on the second floor of a house, or even higher up if possible. Why? Because there are less dust, germs and poison auto exhaust than on the sidewalk or first floor of a house.

This is especially true of poison exhaust from autos—for this gas clings near the ground, being heavy.

A baby specialist, who charges $100 for the advice contained in this editorial, says it is unsafe to wheel a baby along city streets until baby is about eight months old.

Old-timers may scoff and comment that such precautions were not taken years ago.
No, and the baby death rate was much higher then. Also, the air was purer.

Above all, keen people with chronic coughs away from babies. The most pronounced symptom of tuberculosis is the optimism of its victims. They usually believe they are going to get well, right up to their death. They further rarely believe it is "catching."

MUNCHHAUSEN OUTCLASSED.

Publicity acts like a stimulant to Roxie Stinson, the star witness of the Daugherty investigation committee. She seems to have a bag full of sensations, each more startling than those which preceded it, which she can draw in indefinitely so long as the newspapers will give her free advertising. Her latest story tells of a profit of $33,000,000 made by five men in two days through deals in Sinclair oil stock. She does not take the trouble to name the men, and gives the story merely as another of those casual conversations with her divorced husband.

It so happens that $33,000,000 is more than the total profits reported to have been made by all owners of Sinclair stock, including the Sinclair companies themselves. Ordinarily such a tremendous financial overturn in the market would be the feature of financial interest for days. But it seems nobody ever heard of the deal until it was unfolded by Roxie Stinson.

FATTY.

Tom Ton, of Los Angeles, weighs 745 pounds. Hearing which, the circus people didn't wait to see him. They wired an offer and told him to come ahead as a sideshow attraction.

Lewis and Clark displayed no more courage going west over a century ago than Tom Ton traveling east. You can imagine him in a Pullman corridor. Reaching New York, they couldn't get him into a taxi, so they loaded him on a truck. At the hotel, he had to use the freight elevator.

How kindly nature is, in standardizing the size of humanity with so few exceptions.

A POPULAR COLOR.

While the senate investigators are busily dispensing lurid testimony to the public, our fish dealers have taken their cue and are painting their salmon red. The department of agriculture has taken a hand in the latter deception. Unfortunately there is no higher authority to suppress the senatorial colorings, and they will probably persist until some of our people have been poisoned.

TOM SIMS SAYS

The Dutch have broken off negotiations with Russia, showing the Russians have gotten in Dutch.

The auto market, the insurance market,
and the bootleg market never seem to reach the saturation point.

Fighting in Mexico has slacked up a little,
but Americans didn't have time to worry over it, anyway.

Too many investigations spoil the results.

A censor for radio is suggested. If he will eliminate the cat fights we approve heartily.

One sign of spring is motorists detouring marble games.

Happiness isn't scarce. It just isn't being used much.

Another sure sign of spring is when you wonder if you hear a saw mill or a mosquito.

Honesty pays in the long run while dishonesty usually pay in a short run and a swift one.

A group of senators plan a trip through our national forests, and you can't blame them for taking to the tall and uncut.

It's a great life if you don't get spring fever, or if you do.

Too many bank cashiers are escaping after a spring cleaning.

Lots of people go around hunting temptations to avoid.

If pieces of modern art are dug up 3000 years from now, posterity will think we wore no clothes.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 19—THE EASTER BUNNY ARRIVES

"Did you see a chocolate rabbit with one ear?"

A very unexpected person made a visit to Doofunny Land. You would think he'd be too awfully busy right at this time to go to such a far-away country, but there he was, long ears and short tail and all. It was the Easter Bunny.

Nancy and Nick and Mister Fuzz Wuzz met him on the road, peering this way and that as though he was looking for something.

"How do you do?" he said, "did you see a chocolate rabbit with one ear, and a hollow hen?"

Mister Fuzz Wuzz laughed. "With one ear and a hollow hen? What did he want with a hollow hen?"

"It's no time for joking," said the Easter Bunny. "I asked you if you had seen a hollow hen and a one-eared chocolate rabbit?"

"Well, why didn't you say so?" exclaimed Mister Fuzz Wuzz. "You said
a rabbit with one ear and a hol—"

"Oh, shush!" said the newcomer. "I haven't time to waste. My Easter baskets are all ready but one, and it was ready, too, but when I had my back turned to get some tiny eggs to put into the basket, the bunny and hen snipped off. All that was left was one of the bunny's ears and a few crumbs of maple sugar off the hen.

I've been to Sugar Plum Land, but they are not there, and to Toy Land, but they are not there either! Doofunny Land was the only place I could think of after that so I came here.

Are you sure you didn't see them?"

"No, we didn't," said the Twins.

"And I didn't," said Mister Fuzz Wuzz. "However, there are a lot of people in Doofunny Land you haven't asked yet. Come along, Bunny, we'll go with you."

"See a bunny and a chicken?" exclaimed the Easter Bunny.

meditation prepared for Commission on Evangelism of Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

SATURDAY
The Moral Quilter

Read Matt. 19:13-22. Text: 19:22. He went away.

"The hope of it (life) is simply the desire to keep on working with a multitude of others for the common good.
Anyone who did not resent the idea that his chance to work for the common good must end with death would be a moral quitter. He would show that he did not care enough about the unselfish, honest, friendly life to wish to keep on living it."

MEDITATION: To live an unselfish life in a world where there are so many things which can gratify not only the material longings but even the finer tastes of men is indeed a difficult accomplishment. "But to every-man there openeth a high way and a low, and every man decideth the way his soul shall go." In all the world what sadder sight than that of a man who, knowing the higher, turns to the lower way of living?

PERSONAL QUESTION: Is there anything in what I have or am that looks larger than the Will of God?

PRAYER: Almighty God, our Father, we pray for those whose eyes are turned away from thee. May the circumstances of their lives and the wooing of thy spirit call them again to themselves. May ye learn ways of spiritual fellowship with all thy children, that thy grace may prevail in all our hearts, through Christ. Amen.

THE NUT CRACKER

MR. T. COBB

Augusta, Ga.—Ty Cobb says this will be his last year as a player and the pitchers hope so. Cobb was a star when Niagara was a mill pond, but he's still harder to fool than a widow with a purpose.

Ty was one of the first ball players to experiment with the hazardous science of thinking. Before his time the average athlete imagined he was getting full power out of his bean
when he used it for a dandruff ranch.

Cobb used to startle the buyers by dashing from first to third on an infield fumble. When he wasn't doing this he was going all the way home.
He was harder to figure than a cross-eyed woman driver in traffic.

Old-timers used to call Cobb lucky stuff. Said he he ever fell into a manhole he'd land next to a wine barrel.
Experts wrote pieces for the papers saying he was mere flash in the skillet.

All of 'em wear as right as usual.
Cobb was lucky like Edison, Morgan, Chaplin and Miss Joyce. The young man simply has a swell line of groceries and he was always prompt with deliveries.

Cobb has lasted longer than a double decker toothbrush in a North Carolina hermit's shack. Gauss is a sturdy fard. It takes more than a light tap on the Van Dyke to send real talent kicking.

Baseball has never known more daring or colorful base runner. Cobb leaped from base to base on his own juice;
he could get more miles on a pint of spiked foot oil than anybody that ever played the game.

They tell you base stealing is an art.
With the Peach it was a habit, like walking in an upright position and using soap on back of the neck.

Smart crackers used to say: Jennings had a great ball club in Cobb.
They could have gone four furlongs further and said Ban Johnson had a great league in him.

It will be a long time before the game develops a second Cobb and then it will be just that—a second Cobb.
You've seen the first and only.

DOHENY TELLS HOW HE MET AL FALL AND HOW HE MADE FIRST STAKE

This is the sixth chapter of E. L. Doheny's own story of his rise to fame—"How I Made My Millions." Previous chapters Doheny tells of his early life, how he left home and made his way to the southwest.

Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.

BY E. L. DOHENY.
The word of the discovery of gold in the Black Hills, and I rushed in—to be disappointed again, for the hills were still part of Indian territory, not open to prospecting. I went on into Colorado, then to the Black Hills. But without any luck. Part of the time I went with a party of prospectors, among whom were Ed. Galt, Wild Mac and Tom Walsh, cousin-law of Edward B. McLean, or of the Washington Post and Enquirer.

But I left them and went on alone to the head of Cave Creek, where I had some gold which I mined in a native Mexican way—and made the first money from mineral.

That was in 1876. The next year I made a little more from an operation at Great Eagle Gulch, near Braden. But it wasn't a great deal. I didn't seem to have much luck with it.

I drifted on and discovered the rich now known as Sierra County, N. M. It was a wild place, where people who went in were supposed never to come out alive. But I came out a silver miner. I found at North Platte, and then got $3500 for leasing Silver Nugget mine.

In 1882 I helped found Kingston, N. M. I discovered two years before, and I taught school for a spell and went back to prospecting. My second silver money came from finding two claims I held, to Jeff Reynolds for $7000. Next came the return from selling Miners Dream to a man from Morristown.

These returns spurred me on. I wanted to make more strikes. When I couldn't find them in one place, I went elsewhere. I guess I worked in almost every mining camp in the southwest.

I made many friends. I met Charles A. Canfield, with whom I later was to make my first oil strike. I met "Al" Fall and we became friends. And we have been friends—close friends—for these past 45 years. When we were in trouble we helped each other. It's the mark of friendship—so often overlooked by those who seek only to criticize and scandalize.

In all these years I have never known Fall to do a dishonorable act. Our relations—at all times—were on the highest plane—as must be where friendship is real.

But while I made many friends in the old days I didn't make much money. Once I fell down a mine shaft and broke both legs. I was laid up for a long time. I began to study law by myself. I recalled how I used to dream of growing up to be a lawyer, while I was at school in Fon du Lac.

By the time that my bones were knit, I had mastered enough law to pass the examination for admittance to the bar. I practiced for a year or more but the urge to go prospecting again was too great. So I went back and kept at it—without much more luck than before.

Finally I decided to change the scene of operation and went to Los Angeles. There my luck changed. (In his next article Doheny tells how he first entered the oil game.)

William R. Johnson's MESSAGE and Open Letter

To the Voters of the 13th Congressional District:

Notwithstanding that I have visited all the larger cities and even many of the smaller villages throughout the entire District, met and talked to many thousands of voters and delivered a number of addresses, I sincerely regret that it has been absolutely impossible for me to meet every man and woman voter in the District before the Election.

But I find that to personally see all the voters in Stephenson, Jo Daviess, Carroll, Whiteside, Lee and Ogle Counties, when roads and weather conditions have been so bad, is impossible.

Under these conditions the best I could do has been to write and see as many of my friends as possible each week and depend upon you to read what the newspapers have said about my candidacy, which explain how I stand and where my sympathies lie on all these important economic and political problems.

I am indeed grateful for the cordial reception my candidacy has received everywhere from the leading civic, trade, patriotic, farmers, women, church and other societies and associations throughout the District. This is much appreciated and will never be forgotten.

Every day the chances for my nomination seem better. The only dangers that I can now see are (1) over-confidence upon the part of my friends; and (2) the possibility that some of you may not go to the polls and vote.

The weather and roads may be bad but the nomination of the best qualified and most dependable candidates for all the offices is of such great importance to the people that I am confident every good, loyal,

You are cautioned to beware of all the false and misleading political stories that are being so industriously circulated and printed as paid advertisements to injure me, and mislead the voters. I am making a clean fight to win.

patriotic citizen will make a special effort to go to the polls and vote next Tuesday.

I want the farmers, wage earners, business and professional men, the fathers and mothers of this District to know that if nominated and elected you can rely upon me to do my best to support the cause of good Government in the interests of all the people to the very best of my ability and that I shall always endeavor to merit your confidence, support and vote.

Very sincerely yours,

ELECT A SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS MAN TO THE LEGISLATURE

Take sufficient interest in the affairs of government in Illinois to send a man to Springfield who is something more than a politician—a man who has demonstrated his ability as a business man of honor and integrity and brains.

No business man would let his competitor or his neighbor select the man to run his business, but some of them let anyone but themselves pick the men who make his laws, and then complain when the laws don't suit them.

John P. Yetter, as member of the legislature, will be a credit to this district. He enjoys the confidence and support of all who know him. You will be glad you voted for him.

VILLAGE ELECTION AT ASHTON TUESDAY APR. 15 ANNOUNCED

Little Interest Shown in Campaign; Other News of Village.

Ashton—Charles Healy of Rochelle was in town Wednesday on business. W. T. Webb of Dixon, the general agent for the Northwestern Mutual Life Ins. Co., of Milwaukee, transacted business in town Wednesday afternoon.

Frank S. Hart left Tuesday evening on a business trip to southeastern Iowa in connection with his farming interests.

Otto Schade and E. J. Yenerich were in Dixon Wednesday morning returning the ballots to the county clerk that were voted at the Judicial election Tuesday.

Word was received here the first of the week by Geo. W. Batchelor of the death of Henry Myers of Byron. He will be remembered by the older citizens as the gentleman who often bought horses in this community for the eastern market.

George A. Putman has rented the old Walker property on Main street and will engage in the poultry business.

Deputy Sheriff Fred A. Richardson is now the night police officer taking the place of George Schabacker who has taken a job as mechanic at the Ashton garage.

Faust H. Boyd and Glenn C. Rosecrans were in Chicago Tuesday on business.

A deal was closed Monday whereby Faust H. Boyd becomes the owner of the Franklin Grove garage formerly owned by R. E. Anderson of Rochelle. Otto T. Krenz will have charge, spending part of his time at the Ashton garage.

The members of the Brotherhood of the Methodist church gave their entertainment Friday evening. Attorney Mark C. Keller of Dixon was the principal speaker, speaking on "Law Enforcement."

John M. Krug and family spent last Sunday in Clinton, Ia., visiting Mrs. Krug's sister, who is in the hospital.

Miss Eva Bresson is home for a week's vacation from her school duties at Mt. Vernon, Ia.

The Ashton District School election will be held next Saturday afternoon at the town hall. Frank S. Hart is the director whose term of office expires this year. We understand he is a candidate for re-election. He has given two terms of his valuable time as a director giving his best attention to the requirements of the district.

A large meeting of ladies was held at the Mrs. O. W. Griffith home to organize an Essington-for-Governor club. Several ladies from Dixon were at the meeting.

The Rebekah lodge entertained with their bi-monthly party at their hall Friday evening. Refreshments were served during the evening.

The regular village election will be held Tuesday, April 15. Three village trustees, one village clerk and one police magistrate are to be elected. J. W. Grise, Wm. Heibenthal and Frank W. Howard are the candidates for trustee and Ralph J. Dean is a candidate for re-election as village clerk. There is not much excitement over the village election this year as Ashton has about all the public improvements she needs and nearly all paid for.

The exhibition will be under the direction of E. L. Kuhn, the physical director, and every person should see it and particularly the parents of the boys as this is the only gym exhibition that will be given this season. It has been made possible through the courtesy of L. G. Rorer of the Dixon Theatre.

SUPPORT BYERS FOR STATE REPRESENTATIVE

REP. JOHN H. BYERS

The friends of Representative Byers are asking for his re-nomination primarily on his record. Every bill in the interest of agriculture had his enthusiastic support. He was loyal to labor on its requests for consideration of its legislation. Service boys of the district always found a sympathetic friend in him. Those interested in educational legislation found in him a helpful friend. Three planks in Mr. Byers' platform are: Good Citizenship; Clean Politics; Community Welfare.

Byers deserves re-nomination for State Representative because of his satisfactory service. The Prairie Farmer in its issue of March 22, 1924, indorses the candidacy of Representative Byers as follows:

"Completing his second term with an excellent record on farm legislation, appropriations, tax reform and school measures. He has served his farmer constituents with marked ability."

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

All plans are completed for the revival meetings to commence next Sunday. I have just received a letter from Oliver E. Ekstrom who is to lead the singing, saying that he will be here this afternoon and will meet all the singers at 7:30 this evening. All those who sing—both old and young—are urged to be at the church this evening. And all singers from other churches are most cordially invited to join the chorus and lend us their help in the meetings when free to do so. Mr. Ekstrom is a young man—a graduate from the Moody Training School. He has a very pleasant and attractive personality, and everybody will enjoy him. All the members of the church are urged to rally to the possibilities of this meeting. It will put the church many years ahead if all the membership will come up to the help of the altar. And to withhold sympathetic and co-operative service is treason to Jesus. Even to doubt the success of a pastor is to throw one's personality against him. Every member should put himself where God can use him to the best advantage. If Jesus is any thing to you come at this time when He needs your help to sustain His cause and build up His church and bring the unsaved to the Cross.
Mr. Ekstrom will lead the singing at all the services.
Sunday School 9:45 a. m. Mr. Ekstrom will sing for the Sunday School. 10:45 a. m. Preaching service and worship. The subject of the sermon will be: "The Endowment of the Life of the Church with Spiritual Power for Service."
7:30 p. m. Preaching service. This will be preceded by an inspiring song service led by Mr. Ekstrom. Every body cordially invited to come and enjoy these services. The subject of the sermon will be: "Taking an Inventory of Life." Text: "Where Art Thou?"

EPWORTH LEAGUE NOTES

Miss Mabel A. Smith led the chapter devotionals last Sunday evening. The topic considered "Christ Fulfilling His Father's Commission; In His Works" was thoroughly presented from every angle. Many of his works were taken separately, among them the healing of the ten lepers, the raising of Lazarus, the restoration of sight to blind Bartemaeus, the healing of the palsied man and his attitude toward the Samaritan woman and Zachaeus. The point was especially stressed that these miracles were used by Jesus to present the great truths to the people in a concrete way where speeches or parables would fail. The discussion was an interesting one to all who were there.

A special number on the program last Sunday was a clarinet solo, "Blumenlied" by Paige Swim and he responded to an encore. The numbers were every well played. Eugene Vest accompanied at the piano.

Iris' night was observed in Intermediate League Sunday following the successful boys' night program. Mrs. A. S. Moore and Mrs. John Weiss gave interesting talks and there were other numbers which made a worth while devotional service.

The Senior Cabinet meeting scheduled for this Wednesday evening was postponed one week because of the crowding of other events. Every officer is urged to be present with a full report for this will be the last regular session during this term of office.

MISS ALIAS

BY DOUGLAS GRANT

WEEKLY MEAL SERVICE LUNC

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Sallie Peck, employee of the Fair Deal Five & Ten, quarrels with her policeman sweetheart, Michael Curtis. That night Sallie goes into the yard to take down a washing for Ma Brennan, with whom she lives. A crash shakes the earth and something strikes Sallie a blow on the head.

When she regains consciousness, the girl finds herself in strange surroundings. A French maid calls her Alva Copeland and Madame Copeland, a tall, richly gowned woman, claims her as her stepdaughter. Sallie meets Cousin Wheeler, who makes love to her. She resolves to solve the mystery of why she is being substituted for Alva Copeland. Sallie tells the Copelands she is wise to their game and that, if they pay her enough, she will play a hand with them. The Copelands accept Sallie's offer.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"But if I do carry it off and you refuse to keep your part of the agreement, somebody that's interested might get a straight tip not as to me but as to the real Alva." It looks like we've got to trust each other or call the whole thing off."

Mrs. Copeland had sunk back in her chair at the mention of her stepdaughter's name and Sallie started nervously but Hellows darted a warning glance at each and observed:

"There are reasons why Miss Alva Copeland does not care to appear in this and if you take her place you must do so blindly, asking no questions. As you say, we must trust each other; it is a question of good faith on both sides. We will let you know this afternoon as to whether or not we are willing to meet your terms."

Taking this as a dismissal, Sallie glanced at Mrs. Copeland and rose, but paused in the doorway.

"I wouldn't have to go around New York very much, would it? It's only fair to warn you I've got friends in this town even if I ain't ever been here before and although I suppose the crowd back in Shaftstown think I've run away somebody might recognize me and write back and tell 'em. Yesterday I thought maybe I'd like to go home but now I've made up my mind that I don't ever want to hit that burg or meet anybody in it again."

"Why?" Sallie began but Sallie interrupted him with a grin.

"If I ain't asking questions I ain't answering them, Mr. Sloat!"

She closed the door behind her and as in the morning found Fitch loitering at the stairs' head. Sallie gestured toward the room she had just left.

"See if you can listen in and get a line on what they're talkin' about in there," she whispered. "Then bring a cup of tea or something to my room and give me the dope on it."

"Get you." He nodded and glided past her while she shut herself in her bedroom and going to the window drew aside the curtains and rested her throbbing forehead against the window pane.

Had she been a match for them, after all? She had demanded twice the sum—she offered to convince them of her willingness to enter into their scheme and her confidence that they would keep to their agreement. The other conditions which she had made; her desire to meet no one unnecessary to their plan and to go nowhere about the city were just hints which she had thrown out for them to think over later when she succeeded in making them doubt her true identity and be willing to be rid of her and buy her silence at any price.

Sallie knew she would have to bring things to a crisis without delay for there was hourly danger that the real "Diamond Bess" might be caught but she could think of no other way to escape from them.

The warm sunshine of that Sunday afternoon had filled the Avenue beneath her window with a stream of cars from curb to curb and the girl gazed idly down upon them for some little time before it was borne upon her that a certain powerful-looking gray roadster had passed and repassed the house at such brief intervals that it could only have gone around the block, and that its bare-headed driver was staring up at her window and seemed to be making motions to her. It was the man on horseback of the previous day!

With the conviction of this there came the swift intuition that he wasn't just some guy trying to get fresh; he was waving, signaling to the girl who should have been in that window, the real Alva Copeland! Sallie drew back hastily but not before, almost without her own volition, she had made a little gesture of denial.

Would he drive back again? The westerling sun was glaring straight upon her window turning the glass to a blurred, damming expanse and doubting that he could distinguish her features she tried with all her strength to raise the sash but it had evidently been fastened with a purpose. For all her practicability Sallie's romantic heart had led her straight to the solution of the man's constant reappearance before the house and if he were the real Alva Copeland's sweetheart she meant that he should know of the substitution. The minutes lengthened with no further sign of the gray car and at last a low, insistent tapping at the door made her turn to admit Fitch. That excellently trained footman's eyes were fairly beaming from his head and the tea-tray clattered slightly as he set it down upon the little table.

"YOU MAY GO, FITCH," THE LATTER'S TONES WERE COLD.

"So that's the game, is it?" he whispered hoarsely. "Fifty thousand they're going to give you? They've decided on it! Who're you double-crossing, them or the chief?"

Sallie grinned. "Neither one, Fitch. I gotta lay low for awhile anyhow, ain't I?—that is, if I'm who you think I am!"

"The chief's no good stalling with me, Bess!" He glanced behind him and then advanced to pour the tea. "You know you can't get away with this even if you was working under the chief's orders, which you're not. They're leery of you already in there, at least Sloat is; says your lingo is more like a crook's than a shop-girl's and he's all for having you looked up more thorough in that town where the wreck happened but the old lady and the solicitor chap won't hear of it. You're a game one, I'll say that for you! Call it laying low to stick about here with the Delapierre woman herself in the very house yesterday?"

"What's it to you?" Sallie shrugged. "You stick to your job and stick to the solution of the man's constant reappearance before the house and if he were the real Alva Copeland's sweetheart she meant that he should know of the substitution.

"What's it to you?" Sallie shrugged. "You stick to your job and I'll stick to mine. What are you butting in for?"

"Because," he bent suddenly over her chair, "I'm fair gone on you, Bess! The others told me about you but strike me pink if I thought you was half as pretty as you are. An easy berth, fifty thousand and a quick getaway may look good to you but you'd never be able to put it over on the chief, to say nothing of those four sparklers! I saw Chicago Molly after she'd tried to hold out on him in that little matter of the Morganthal bonds and I turned fair sick, I did, though I ain't the squeamish kind! I couldn't a-bear to see it come to you—"

Fitch stiffened all at once and his face took on its habitual wooden expression for the door at the end of the hall had opened without the single warning sound of a footfall and silken draperies trailed toward them.

"This is very nice, thank you," Sallie remarked composedly. "Please tell Mrs. Sloat—my mother that I've had my tea if she asks."

"Very good, miss," Fitch turned and then passed as Mrs. Copeland swept in at the open doorway.

"You may go, Fitch," the latter's tones were coldly austere and then as the pseudo-footman obeyed she turned to the girl. "If you want your tea, don't you know that it would have been the proper thing for you to ring for Therese?"

Sallie turned wide eyes upon her. "I did ring twice, if you mean pushing that button thing there, Mrs. Copeland! I forgot all about the little silver bell. That waiter or whatever you call him was passing along the hall and I asked him to bring me a cup of tea. I didn't think you'd mind!" she added penitently. "Seems to me I got more to learn about this job every time I turn around!"

"Well, we won't discuss it now," Mrs. Copeland's tone had softened and she seated herself on the chaise longue. "My dear, we have decided to accept your terms! From now on you are to be my stepdaughter Alva!"

"You're on—I mean, I'll do it, Mrs. Copeland!" Sallie amended hastily. "I'll do my best to get away with it and I'll be dead on the level with you. That's all I can say."

"It is sufficient—Alva," Mrs. Copeland beamed graciously and opened a small, flat leather case which she carried. "I promised you some jewels suitable for your age and position, and these are the first!"

Sallie stifled the quick beating of her heart as she eyed the single strand of small, perfectly matched pearls but her eyes shone as she raised them once more to those of the older woman although she endeavored to keep her voice calmly practical.

"They're pretty, all right, and I suppose they're the real thing but ain't they kind of dinky and five-and-ten for swell society? I thought you meant something big—diamonds, maybe."

She held her breath, reading Mrs. Copeland's look of disgust at her seeming aversion, but the other's tone was resigned as she took the pearls from the case and held them out. "Not for a young girl, and these are very valuable. I am sorry you don't like them but let me put them about your neck. There! See how becoming they are!"

Sallie murmured half-abashed thanks and then added determinedly: "There's one big diamond I'll have any way, ain't there? When is Cousin Wheeler coming across?"

"Wheeler?" Mrs. Copeland appeared puzzled. "Sure!" Sallie nodded. "I may not know much about society but I'm wise to engagement rings, all right, and if I've got to keep steady company with him I think I ought to have the whole works."

Mrs. Copeland rose with an air of exasperation. "Come!" she exclaimed. "I will repeat your suggestion to him."

"Bellows was still in the sitting room with young Sloat and the two appeared to have been engaged in an argument which had been slightly heated on the younger man's part but it ceased abruptly on their entrance.
